Why is this Important?

- The architecture of your home is a direct and substantial representation of history and place.

Why is this Important?

- Connecting you to your home for preservation purposes
- Preservation represents commitment to remembering the past and preparing for a sustainable future

Why is this Important?

Demolition and new construction...

- Consume present-day energy
- Negate and waste energy & investment made in a building

Why is this Important?

Demolition is irreversible.

- No amount of regret, redoubled effort, or expense can possibly bring back a lost historic structure.

The Fastest Growing Cities in the US

By Shawn Smith

Our Star Tribune recently reported that population growth in the Twin Cities is outpaced by other US Cities. In reviewing metro area population trends, almost as many people moved to the Twin Cities as moved away between 2010-2016. In response, readers had various reactions: It's not a contest! People get tired of the cold! It's slow growth but it's steady! Why is this with so many Fortune 500 companies! This is why we need SWLRT! Legalize marijuana so people stay and don't move to Denver! Who cares, I can't find parking as it is!

While the article says we are lagging, a 6% growth rate is not too shabby. The US total population only grew 4.5% during the same time period (Source: US Census). One could argue that growing too fast straps our educational, transit, social, and employment capacities faster than we can adapt. Getting our "fair share" of population growth isn't a priority for residents that enjoy living in an approachable, mid-size metropolitan area.

That said, growth rate in the Twin Cities lags the five fastest growing metro areas, each growing from 12.6%

SWLRT Increases GHG Emissions from Wetlands, Habitat, and Urban Forest

By Cathy Deikman

GHG and Climate Change a Time-Critical Issue

Strong warnings and new information about the negative impact of greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, climate change, and looming environmental catastrophe appear frequently. Minnesota seems to take climate change very seriously. After the Paris Climate Agreement was concluded in December 2015, an editorial by the Lt. Governor, speaking also for the Governor, celebrated the Agreement and reviewed the negative impacts of climate change in Minnesota (Star & Tribune, 12/23/15). The editorial was posted on the Met Council website and can still be found there.

In July 2016, the Minnesota Environmental Quality Board (MEQB) issued an urgent report, Climate Solutions and Economic Opportunities: A foundation for Minnesota state climate action planning. The report found the state is not on track to meet its GHG and carbon emissions goals set by the bi-partisan 2007 Next Generation Energy Act. The Lt. Governor introduced the report with a strong endorsement and affirmed, "Minnesota needs bold action to meet these goals." The report warned against "business as usual" and declared

Energy Policy at Pre-Southwest Journal," 1 panel warned, "As long as the policies that are not SWLRT Increases

These urgent war MEQB are important SWLRT would play in on GHG emissions is Impact Statement (FEIS) prepared by the Met Council GHG emissions with Air Quality section of a table (FEIS Table 3) 2013, regional GHG emissions (No Build), and regional GHG emissions (Build).

In the No Build scenario from 2013 to 2040, regional GHG emissions would be higher in 2040 than in the 2013 No Build scenario.

Lowry Hill Neighborhood Association News

Don't miss the Lowry Hill Neighborhood Association Annual Meeting Tuesday, May 16th at Temple Israel.

Join us at 6:00 p.m. for social hour with complimentary snacks, cocktails(cash bar) and tours of the building followed by our annual meeting with Board updates & elections at 7:00 p.m.

Upcoming LHNA Board Meetings: Tuesday, April 11th and Tuesday, May 2nd — 7:00 p.m. Kenwood Rec Center.

Your neighborhood Board is committed to serving you. All residents are welcome.

Safety Reminders:

1. ALWAYS CALL 911 to report any suspicious or crime activity
2. LEAVE PORCH LIGHTS ON ALL night, every night.
3. LOCK CAR DOORS and leave nothing visible in your car.
4. LOCK BIKES, record the serial numbers, keep photos of your bike and register it with the city.

Celebrate Earth Day and Participate in Organics Recycling.

Stop sending your pizza boxes, used napkins, eggshells and banana peels to garbage landfills or garbage burners. To sign up, call the City of Minneapolis Solid Waste & Recycling at 612-673-2917.

You will receive a green, organics recycling cart within a couple weeks. There is no extra charge to have your organics picked up every week on your collection day.

Need water service upgraded from street to old house

Chris Guertin from East Isles · 4h ago

Like many of you, we live in a 100+ year old house. Our water line from the street is very old and our water pressure is non-existent and getting worse. Our water pressure supports either the dishwasher, a shower or washing machine, but not more than one at once. A friend had a 1-1/4" copper line installed in 2003 and it worked wonders for her, but the company that installed it (Boedecker ... View more)
